

LIAM BECKMAN

liam@liambeckman.com | liambeckman.com/code

A self-driven developer with a passion for crafting software and solutions that work for people.

09 February 2021
Next Adventure
Portland, OR

To Whom it May Concern,

OPB's record for quality reporting and broadcasting sets a high standard for journalism. The development of the pipelines and infrastructure that allows digital content to reach as wide of an audience as possible is a crucial component of this standard. As an OPB Sustainer since October 2017, I am proud to support access to a large set of services, ranging from coverage of local arts, news, and politics to exploring the natural beauty of the Northwest and beyond.

With my experience and enthusiasm to see OPB continue to be a cornerstone of Oregon and Southwest Washington, I believe that I am a wonderful fit for the Digital Platform Developer position.

EXPERIENCE. I take the importance of providing quality software to heart. In my professional and scholastic career, I have contributed to and spearheaded numerous projects that delivered upon these goals, including:

- ▷ Reactome — The data curation application used for a research database of biological pathways.
- ▷ withfeathers — A poetry web app and shell program. “‘Hope’ is the thing with feathers - ...”
- ▷ Voyager Index — A quality of life application to help world travelers find their next home.
- ▷ RemoveMyWaste — A map application for hazardous waste removal.
- ▷ demonic — A set of interactive demos of programs and programming languages.

WORK SKILLS. Throughout my technical and general work experiences, I have fostered a strong work ethic and commitment to overarching goals. I have a solid experience with software development foundations from a combination of courses and extracurricular pursuits. My ability to plan, execute, and maintain web projects and API's using a wide range of languages and frameworks can greatly serve your technological goals.

The above experiences and my attached resume provide an overview of my qualifications. Following a review, I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to discuss the Digital Platform Developer position at OPB.

Sincerely,
Liam Beckman