To Whom it May Concern,

I admire the track record that Oregon State University has in regards to setting high standards for quality security and network solutions for users. I believe that the Application Software Developer position can work towards such a mission.

EXPERIENCE. I am an exemplary candidate for your Application Software Developer position as I take the importance of providing responsive and quality software to heart. In my scholastic career, I have spearheaded numerous projects that deliver upon these goals, including:

▷ Voyager Index — a quality of life application to help world travelers find their next home.

▷ RemoveMyWaste — an application that helps users dispose of hazardous materials.

▷ Convida — Conway's Game of Life powered by WebAssembly.

WORK SKILLS. Through a combination of courses and extracurricular pursuits, I have a solid experience with major software development foundations. My abilities in planing, executing, and maintaining web, mobile, and database projects using a wide range of languages and frameworks can greatly serve your business pursuits.

The above experiences and my attached resume provide an overview of my qualifications for this position. Following a review of my accomplishments, I would greatly appreciate the opportunity to discuss an Application Software Developer position at Oregon State University.

Sincerely,
Liam Beckman
